BRITISH AIM TO CURB U. S. NAVY

Borah Makes Charge In Senate During Debate on Disarmament

TESTIMONY WITHELD

Idaho Senator Predicts Competitive Building Will Lead to War—Advocate Safety First.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The statement that he had received suggestions that Great Britain was "circulating propaganda" in this country to deter American naval building was made in the Senate yesterdy by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, during a general debate, on disarmament. He understood, he said, that the facts were in possession of the Navy Department.

Senator Poindexter, Republican, Washington, author of the Senate Naval Committee's recent adverse report on Senator Borah's suggestion for a six months naval holiday, in answer to a question whether the committee's investigation had disclosed any such situation, replied that there had been "some testimony" on the subject, but the committee did not believe it should be made public.

"If this information is in the hands of the Navy Department," Senator Borah said, "the Congress should have it. We are informed that in the archives of the Navy Deaprtment there is proof of the propaganda conducted by Great Britain. At the same time we are told that the British Ambassador is on his way here to suggest a disarmament conference."

He also proicted that war between the United States with either Japan or Great Britain would result with in the next few years if competitive navy building continues.

Senator Borah again urged that an agreement be reached between the naval powers for reduction of building programs and also advocated a careful investigation to determine whether capital ships are tactically obsolete.

Opinions of American, British, German and other naval experts that capital ships have become obsolete were presented by Senator Borah. He read from a letter by an American Rear Admiral, retired who said:

"I would stake my life that in a few years a surface navy alone can go nowhere, but to the bottom."

Senator Poindexter, in defending the Naval Committee's report supporting the capital shipbuilding program, declared that if the United States accepted the building postponement plan it would "become at once a defeated nation, would lose its insular possessions" and its citizens would be able to travel the seas only upon terms laid down by rival nations.

"Before sitting down with these nations at the conference table," he said, "the committee feels we should take precautions not to sit down disarmed. If the six-month suspension were adopted we would lose, in addition between fifteen million and twenty-five million dollars."

The Senator said he would like to know whether Great Britain would reduce its fleet to present strength of the American Navy and if Japan would actually stop naval construction He asserted that the British main fleet was twice as strong as the American and that Japan would equal the American strength within the next three or four years.

The Naval Appropriation bill ran through hostile waters in the House yesterday, but at the end was still afloat.

Shot at from all sides, it almost went down at times as members attempted to riddle some of the provisions of the $3,5,000,000 measure. One section, on the point of going out, was saved by Chairman Butler, of the Naval Affairs Committee, who went to the front and rescued it.

Opposition to the bill cropped out as a result of the general dissatisfaction with the new method of framing appropriation legislation. Heretofore the naval bill has been drafted by the Naval Committee, but under so-called budget system that committee holds its hands while a subcommittee on appropriations does the work.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, ranking Republican member of the Naval Committee, threw most of the bombs, using always the argument that funds recommended by the framers of the measure were not authorized by law. In this way many sections went out on points of order with indications that many more will go out, for only a little headway was made with the reading yesterday.

Advocates of economy and friends of disarmament jumped to their feet in all parts of the chamber to throw out an amendment by Representative Hicks, Republican, New York, of the Naval Committee, providing $7,500,000 for navy aircraft. In the end they had their way, although Mr. Hicks pleaded hard and earnestly for sufficient funds to build up the air branch of the sea service. There was no vote on the amendment, it being ruled out on a point of order as new legislation.

Mr. Britten failed to upset an appropriation of $343,000 for temporary government in the Virgin Islands.

Children's Chapter

D. A. R. to Organize Branch for Youngsters—Other Matters Discussed

Mount Vernon Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Uhler 121 North Washington street, with the regent, Mrs. D. Mauchlin Niven presiding.

The members present were Mrs. Niven, Mrs. Uhler, Mrs. William R. Purvis, Mrs. C. William Wattles, Mrs. Samuel A. Wallis, Mrs. Robert W. Fuller, Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair, Mrs. Frances Smoot Danenhower, Mrs. John Hunton Foster, Mrs. John T. Stephenson, Miss Fannie M. Burke, Miss Helen C. Calvert and Miss Margaret McGregor Ashby.

Considerable routine business was transacted, much of which pertained to the local activities of the chapter. A contribution towards "The Manual for immigrants" was made. This is in line with the general work of "Americanization" which the national society is vigorously promoting.

The great scope and extent of this work is not generally known. It receives the approval and support of employers whose working forces are largely of foreign birth.

The Fine Arts Commission has passed upon and accepted the memorial which the chapter proposes for the late Mrs. Ruth Ashton Powell. This memorial will be installed in the Virginia room in Continental Hall before the annual D. A. R. congress in April.

Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair was appointed local chairman of a committee to organize a chapter of the children of the D. A. R. in this city.

WILSON FINDS CALLER A SIMPLE BUNGALOW

Washington, Feb. 12.—The best "inside story" in Washington yesterday is one of President Wilson's witticisms.

Recently the President listened patiently to a man who impressed him as having little intellectual depth.

"That man," said the President, "is a simple bungalow. He has no upper story whatever."

Score Victory In First Round

Hearing Of Case Of Washington-Virginia Railway Co., For Fare Increase Set For June 13

COMMUTERS ARE WELL PLEASED

Trolley Company's Prevailing Rates Will Continue Till The Question is Determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission—Order Postponing Case Entered Late Yesterday Afternoon by Commission—People Now Feel Confident of Victory When the Case is Heard on its Merits—Increase Was to Have Become Operative Tomorrow.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has suspended the proposed increase in rates on the Washington-Virginia Railway Company's lines till June 13. The new rates, which would have have been a big increase over the prevailing rates, was to become operative tomorrow.

News that the suspension had been granted for four months was received with considerable gratification by commuters in this city last night when the news reached here.

Sometime ago the Washington-Virginia Railway Company filed application with the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to increase its rates between this city Washington, Mount Vernon and all points along its line between Washington and Mount Vernon and also for increases on the Falls Church division.

Immediately the commuters on both ends of the line organized and were prepared to battle the road to the very limit to prevent the proposed increase.

The Interstate Commerce Commission on last April gave this road an increase in fare. They now ask for the second increase and also ask permission to take off the twenty-five trip book of tickets which sells for 2.75. Which is regarded as a most popular book sold. The road seeks to increase the price of the round trip from thirty-eight to forty-eight cents and increase the price of the monthly or 52 trip book of tickets from $4.46 to $5.50.

Whether or not the Washington-Virginia Railway Company will continue to seek the increase next June is not known at this time.

With the price of everything coming down just now it is pointed out by many that things will be more like normal by that time than they are at present.

Expressions of satisfaction today were heard on all sides when it was learned that the road will have to wait four months before they can have their case to boost the fare considered.

The people will be better organized to fight by that time than they are now and the commuters and others who joined together to prevent the increase are being congratulated on scoring a victory Number 1.

Members of the commuters and others who propose to fight the railway company to a finish in this proposition say they are against anything in shape of a compromise and against one cent increase for the trolley line. They feel confident that they will win a sweeping victory over the railway company.

The order entered by the Interstate Commerce Commission says:

At a session of Division 2 of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 11th day of February, A. D., 1921.

Investigation and suspension docket No. 1297.

Fares of the Washington-Virginia Railway Company.

It appearing, That there has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Washington-Virginia Railway Company a tariff containing schedules stating new individual fares and charges, and new individual regulations and practices affecting such fares and charges, to become effective, on the 13th day of February, 1921, designated as follows:

Washington-Virginia Railway Company: I. C. C. No. 11.

It is ordered, That the Commission upon complaint, without formal pleading, enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the fares, charges, regulations and practices stated in the said schedules contained in said tariff.

It further appearing, That said schedules make certain increases in fares for the interstate transportation of passengers and property, and the rights and interests of the public appearing to be injuriously affected thereby, and it being the opinion of the Commission that the effective date of the said schedules contained in said tariff should be postponed pending said hearing and decision thereon;

It is further ordered, That the operation of all schedules contained in said tariff be suspended, and that the use of the fares, charges, regulations and practices therein stated be deferred upon interstate traffic until the 13th day of June, 1921, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, and no change shall be made in such fares, charges, regulations and practices during the said period of suspension unless authorized by special permission of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That the fares and charges thereby sought to be changed shall not be increased and the regulations and practices thereby sought to be altered shall not be changed by any subsequent tariff or schedule, until this investigation and suspension proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension and any extension thereof has expired, unless authorized by special permission of the commission.

And it is further ordered, That a copy of this order be filed with said schedules in the office of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and that copy hereof be forthwith served upon the Washington-Virginia Railway Company, and that said carrier be, and it is hereby, made respondent to this proceeding, and that it be duly notified of the time and place of the hearing above ordered.

By the Commission, Division 2.

HARDING GETS REWARD FOR FINDING GLASSES

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 12.—President elect Harding is finding the links here a profitable as well as beneficial source of diversion.

Yesterday afternoon while playing in a golf foursome with Senator Edge, of New Jersey; William Simpson, of New York, and J. H. Edwards, of Ohio, he found a pair of tortoise shell rimmed eyeglasses which had been lost by S. J. Klee, of New York city, and for which a reward of $5 had been offered.

The President elect turned them in when he reached the clubhouse and was offered the reward.

Golfers, while amazed at this, are wondering if Mr. Harding turns in all the golf balls that he finds on the course. They insist that if he does so, the age long quest of Socrates for an "honest man" has ended.

HUNG JURY IN CASE OF DRY AGENT

Nolle Prosse Entered After Jury Announces Its Inability to Agree

THIRD TRIAL OF HALL

Jury Locked up all Night—Hall Was Charged With Shooting and Killing Two Alleged Whiskey Runners.

(Special to the Gazette)

Manassas, Va., Feb. 12.—A jury in the court at Manassas today announced its inability to reach an agreement in the case of William C. Hall, former state prohibition inspector, charged with the murder of Raymond C. Shackelford and Lawrence D. Hudson, alleged bootleggers, and was discharged by Judge Samuel G. Brent.

This was the third trial of Hall and the commonwealth's entered a nolle prosse in this case and Hall will not again have to appear for trial thereby ending this famous case.

Reports from Manassas are to the effect that the jury stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal.

The case of Hall was given the jury at 2.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at 7.35 o'clock last night the foreman announced that they had not yet reached a verdict, but hoped to be able to do so during the night. By order of Judge Brent the jury was locked up over night and took up the case again this morning. After securing breakfast they returned to the jury room and at 10 o'clock the jury was called and announced they were unable to reach a verdict and thereupon discharged by the court.

The shooting of Shackelford and Hudson took place at Fisher's Hill, March 26, 1919.

In the two previous trials of Hall the juries were unable to agree.

The accused stated that he shot Shackelford after having been fired at twice. After the shooting, he said Hudson the other passenger, seized him around the neck and struck him on the head with a quart bottle of whisky. After that, Hall stated that he turned his gun on Hudson, inflicting the wounds that resulted in the youth's death in a Winchester hospital.

W. B. Dunlavey, one of the agents who took part in the capture of the car, was on the stand yesterday afternoon. Joseph Williams, driver of the officers' car, also testified as an eyewitness to the shooting.

Held For Grand Jury

Four Charged With Dispensing Extracts in Violation of Prohibition Law.

In the police court today the case against the driver of a truck and his helper from Washington, who are employees of a wholesale house, who had aboard the truck a quantity of extracts alleged to be in violation of the law, furnished a bail bond in the sum of $100 for their appearance before the grand jury waiving the preliminary hearing. They did not appear in person, a representative of the firm being present together with Attorney Charles H. Smith for them. The bond of $1,000 for the truck still stands pending the trial.

The court has sent a sample of the extracts to Richmond for chemical analysis.

A white man and a white woman, also charged with dispensing extracts, also were held for the grand jury and furnished bond in the sum of $100 each. The man waived a preliminary hearing and the woman asked for a hearing which was granted by Justice Snow.

BOY LOVED TEACHER AND STOLE FOR HER

Vineland, N. J., Feb. 12.—John Galebrese loved his school teacher, Miss Catherine Smith, so well that he stole a pair of spats and presented them to her, but he went too far when he stole watches from C. W. Pearcon's store and lead pencils from Wilson's drug store and $10 in money from the Palace garage.

The boy is now in the lock up where he confessed to Chief of Police Hudson and delivered up some of the goods.

New Athletic Club

Alexandria Athletic Association to Elect Officers Feb. 23.

Alexandria will be represented by a new athletic club during the coming year, under the name of the Alexandria Athletic Association. The well known Virginia and Gibraltar Athletic Clubs have joined together with the purpose of giving Alexandria a real club, in all sports.

March the 15 will be the opening date of a well equipped gymnasium, consisting of every devise, whereby an Alexandrian can enjoy himself and also keep in good condition and good health by a few hours exercise each week. The building selected by the Association will be the largest hall in the city, given over to this purpose and will more than take care of the crowds that attend indoor athletic games and boxing, wrestling shows.

Election of Officers for the new club will take place February 23. membership in the Association will be open for charter members until this date.

The new club will give its first athletic show February sixteenth, at the old hall, 605 King street, every particular regarding the club will be explained to all those who attend. Come and hear what this club is going to be. There will be a fine baseball team on the field under its name and all particulars will be placed before the public. A new athletic field has been secured and will be an ideal place for the sport loving public. There is a surprise if you care to consider it.

FREE LECTURE

L. O. Armstrong to Speak at High School Auditorium Monday Night

A free illustrated lecture will be given by L. O. Armstrong at eight o'clock Monday night in the auditorium of the Alexandria High School under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. His subject will be "From Labrador to Alaska."

Mr. Armstrong has been exploring Canada and the United States for over forty years, and although when you hear him again he will have to confess to the previous use of very nearly seventy years of Father Time's allowance, he is still exploring by canoe, snowshoe, dog-train and on horse-back, He is still climbing mountains, still fishing, shooting camping, swimming, still paddling and still carries his pack with the youngest. He not only observes and remembers what he sees when he travels, but he now brings with him good plovic and still picture men to aid his word painting. He is a diligent reader, saturating himself with the history of the country he traverses its geology and sociology.

Expensive Hit

Cost $25 For John Smith to Strike James Morris

It cost John Smith, colored, $25 for hitting James Morris, colored, over the head with a piece of coal. Sergt. Campbell and Policeman Bell arrested Smith on complaint of Morris and it was a long story before Justice Snow in the police court heard all of the testimony in the case. One man was charged by Police Talbot with violating the traffic law, forfeited $5 collateral, and two nabbed by Policeman Lawrence Padgett for the same offense, also forfeited $5 each.

Mystery Envelops Wall St. Explosion

New York, Feb. 12.—The origin of the tragic Wall Street bomb explosion, which snuffed out 39 lives and severely injured hundreds of others last September, appears to be wrapped in eternal mystery.

When seventeen boxes filled with bolts, jagged iron nuggets and other death-dealing miscellany—remnants of the notorious "death wagon" supposed to have hauled the infernal machine to the scene of the tragedy—were locked up yesterday in a police warehouse, reminiscent policemen remarked that all the multifarious flimsy clues apparently had been followed to the fading out point.

Since the remnants of the old ramshackle dray have been rusting at police headquarters, no less than 300 wagonmakers, painters and cabinetmakers have come from remote corners of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut, in vain efforts to raise its maker. Many expressed opinion that it was an old butter and egg wagon, built seventeen or eighteen years ago. All agreed it had a cover.

AMERICANS HAVE KEEN COMPETITION

Business in China up Before Chamber of Commerce of U. S.

AT A DISADVANTAGE

Seek Exemption From Federal and State Income Taxes and Excess, Profit Tax.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The Foreign Commerce Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today made public two principles it has approved looking to the federal incorporation of American companies doing business in China and their exemption from certain taxes that other foreign companies do not have to pay. These principles are as follows:

"American companies formed primarily for China business and operating in China should be given the privilege of federal incorporation in order that they may have a standing as American companies, under a single set of legal requirements and regulations, which it has been difficult for them to get and maintain when operating under the laws of the individual States, the requirements of which vary and are not generally known in China.

"Such American-China companies, so far as taxation is concerned, should be placed on an equal footing with the companies of other competing countries."

This matter was brought to the attention of the National Chamber by American chambers of commerce in China. These chambers contend that federal incorporation is sought in order that companies made up and manged by Americans in which more than fifty per cent of the enterprise is controlled by American capital, may operate under a single set of clearly understood requirements. For the success of a China business, it is pointed out, it is often advantageous to encourage Chinese capital to come into the corporation with American capital.

In order to gain the confidence of the Chinese investor and of the Chinese business man who may enter in to contractual relations with the corporation, it is regarded as most important that companies should operate under a single set of known requirements, rather than under the varying regulations of the individual states.

The question of exemption from federal and state income taxes and excess profit taxes on such corporation is of very immediate importance, these chambers of commerce and American business men in China point out. American companies are meeting with hard competition in China, especially from British companies, for British laws have recognized the special requirements of the China situation, and have made it possible for British companies operating in China to do so without paying corporate taxes in England. American companies are at a distinct disadvantage in competition with such British companies, and apparently are at a similar disadvantage in competition with French and Japanese companies.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT. On one occasion Aristotle was asked how much educated men were superior to those uneducated; "As much," said he, "as the living are to the dead."

Laertius.

Lincoln's Birthday.

The South concedes the greatness of Abraham Lincoln. In so doing she recognizes not only the eminence of one of her own sons, but pays tribute above all to one of the heroic figures in the great war between the States. There is no question in any southern mind, that Lincoln was a true friend of the South, and that if he had lived the indescribable horrors of the reconstruction period would never have blotted American history.

Lincoln's chief claim to greatness was his unerring intuition of the spirit of the times as it moved and swayed the masses. One of the lowliest himself, by birth, nurture and education, he exemplified as no other man in history, the common sense of the people. This was his genius, and this it was that has ever made him beloved and revered by the toiling and aspiring multitude.

There is no question that Lincoln saw the true principle at issue in the war of the states. It was not slavery, it was not a question of north or south, it was not a question of diverse commercial interests—it was solely the right of a state to separate itself from a union into which it had voluntarily entered by a compact that left it just as free to withdraw at its own sovereign will. He said, during the war, that if he could prevail upon the southern states to re-enter the union, he would eliminate the question of slavery entirely. His whole course demonstrated conclusively his anxiety for but one thing, the preservation of the union He looked upon the South ever as one and homogeneous with the other American States.

We know, and history now concedes it, that the southern states were right in their contention. We believe it would have been far better to have stood on the constitutional ground of right, and permitted a peaceful separation. We believe, just as firmly, that they would have come together again as the two component parts of the great stream of Anglo Saxon civilization. But it would have been without the rancor and bitterness that grew out of the South's desolation and devastation after the War.

The South has its own immortal heroes to whom it has erected altars with undying fires. The names of Davis, Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Albert Sidney Johnston who have been called its four great leaders, lend an imperishable lustre to American history. Their achievements, their characters, their personalities, have made a world bow down in reverence and admiration.

There are two statues of Lincoln that are more or less famous. One by St. Gaudens, and one by George Grey Barnard. The former is conventional, with dignified frock-coat and fashionable appared; with features polished by the chisel, and a general air of elegance and refinement that was not native to the original, nor to the manner born. This is a conception belonging only to the bourgeoisie. The sculptor had not the genius to grasp the ideal that his figure represented. The other, by Barnard, shows the subject with "gnarled and knotted hands," with unkempt hair, with careless dress and loose-jointed limbs This is the true Lincoln. He stood neither for the aristocrat nor the bourgeois. But he id stand for and was a part of the multitudinous masses which it is the mission of Democracy to elevate and refine. As he said, on an occasion, "God must have loved the common people. He made so many of them."

The South, with its chivalric traditions, could not be ungenerous to a foe. The South concedes the greatness of Abraham Lincoln.

Husband Bails Out Pretty Wife Who Paid Gunman to Kill Him

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—Pretty Edna Murphy, who paid a masquerading detective $10 on account with a promise of $75 more to "bump her husband off", was held under $3,000 bail for court yesterday by Magistrate Carson at Central Station. Her husband raised the bail for her release.

A half hour after the hearing the 19-year-old girl bride was kissing her husband and bitterly assailing a boy of 17, the sweetheart, who told the police of the plot of which Edna is accused.

"I didn't think, I didn't think! cried Edna, who held the boy, Charles Colliton, responsible for the plot.

"I'll stand by you, kid," exclaimed the husband, George Murphy, "I'll stand by you through thick and thin."

The story of the "plot" to kill the unsuspecting husband was told by witnesses at the hearing, principal among them being Detective Belshaw and Colliton.

Colliton had earlier told the police that the girl was infatuated with him and tried to get him to buy her poison so she might kill her husband get his life insurance and run away with Colliton.

Detective Belshaw said Colliton had come to him last Tuesday and told him his story. Belshaw suggested that arrangements be made for him (Belshaw) to meet the girl and pose as "Pat," a mythical gunman from Reading.

"Colliton introduced me as 'Pat,'" he explained, "He said, 'This is Pat; he's the man who will do the job.' I turned to the girl and said, 'Do you want me to do it?" She answered, 'Yes.' I said to her, 'What do you want me to do?' She answered, 'Kill him' and make a clean job of it.'

"I then said, 'How much is there in it for me?' She answered, I'll give you $75.'

"Last night", continued the detective, "I went to Fifth and Race street at 4.45 o'clock, taking with me Detective Jimmy Mulgrew and Detective Laird. The detectives went on the other side of the street. Colliton accompanied me. We met the girl and she gave me $10.

"I talked to the girl and we came to the understanding that she should go back home and I would follow her and wait near the house. She was to bring her husband out so I could get a look at him. At 7.30 she came out with her husband. He left her to get a car and she went into a drug store. Detective Laird followed the husband and told him what was supposed to take place. I followed Edna into the drug store and put her under arrest."

Women Conceal Whisky Beneath Their Skirts

New York, Feb. 12.—Six women smugglers, whose contour showed a pronounced expansion after a visit to the Italian steamship Giuseppi Verdi today, were arrested by customs inspectors, and a search revealed twenty-one quarts of liquor, sewed in bags, hanging from their waists beneath their skirts. The liquor was confiscated and each woman, one a grandmother, was fined $5.

Recent orders were issued to customs guards to scrutinize carefully all persons, especially women, who visited vessels at piers, in an effort to check the flow of contraband liquor coming ashore. The discovery today is believed to have uncovered one means by which an extensive traffic has been carried on.

Slemp Grows Uneasy Over Seat in Congress

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 12.—Warning Virginia Democrats that it would be "unfair" to redistrict Virginia so that the Republican majority in the Ninth Congressional District of the State might be eliminated, Representative C. Bascomb Slemp of that district, yesterday intimated that the Republican strength in Congress would be employed to cut the State's representation from ten to six members as a retaliation.

At a recent conference of Democratic committeemen from the Fifth Sixth, Ninth and Tenth Virginia Congressional Districts here it was decided that plans be worked out to redistrict the Sixth and Ninth Districts to "eliminate the Republican majority in the Ninth." The combination proposed to submit such a plan to the State Legislature in 1922.

Bandits Slay Two Men Following Bold Hold Up and Escape

Monmouth, N. J., Feb. 12.—A bandit hunt was in progress in Northern New Jersey today, participated in by sheriffs, deputies, State troopers and motorcycle police, following the hold up and theft of $30,000 worth of liquor from a truck. Two men, one of them a wealthy Italian, were killed outright by the bandits, although he promised to give the bandits the liquor and $500 if his life was spared. Another man is missing and believed dead.

The leader of the bandits himself was killed, being found today in a wrecked automobile near New Brunswick, with a bullet through his head. He was identified as Frank Walsh. In his pockets $808 was found. Whether Walsh was killed in a subsequent clash with another gang of bandits or slain by his own accomplices was not known.

The bandits forced Leo Salamander, owner of the truck, and his companions to enter their car, drove them along unfrequented roads and took Salamander, executed him and beat his brother and Dominick unconscious.

HUSBAND SHOOTS WIFE AND KILLS HIMSELF

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 12.—Mrs. Elizabeth Yorel, 29 years old, is probably fatally wounded and her husband, Anthony Yorel, aged 37, is dead as a result of an attempted murder and suicide in the home of the woman's sister, Mrs. Anthony Locarino, 99 Hickory street, this city. Insane jealousy is given as the cause of the double shooting.

It is said that Mr. and Mrs. Yorel were believed to have settled their difficulties and were to leave yesterday for Corning, New York, to begin life over again. On the evening of departure Yorel fired two shots into his wife's head, and then walked all to a porch and killed himself. The couple came here from Allentown. They have three small children.

Floridians Take Black From Jail; Hang Him to Telephone Post

Wauchula, Fla., Feb. 12.—Ben Campbell, a negro, was taken from the city jail here at midnight last night by a mob of between 200 and 300 men, hanged from a telephone pole and his body riddled with bullets.

The negro was charged with attacking a white woman.

The lynching of Campbell followed his identification by a young white woman at Zolfo, whom the negro was alleged to have attacked earlier in the day. She broke away from him and ran.

The negro got away when the alarm was given and boarded a train. A brother of the girl followed in an automobile and reached here in time to intercept the train. The negro was taken from the train and locked up, and the girl was brought from Zolfo to intercept the train. The negro was lynching followed.

Five American Bluejackets Shot at in Vladivostok

Tokio, Feb. 12.—Five American bluejackets were fired at by unknown persons in Vladivostok at 1 o'clock Tuesday night, one of them being wounded, says the Asahi Shimbun's Vladivostok correspondent yesterday.

The Americans, reinforced by Russian policemen, arrested three Russian officers formerly under the late General Kappel, once commander of the Western armies of the Omsk government, the correspondent adds.

The impression in Vladivostok, according to the correspondent, is that the attack was arranged by Communists, with the object of straining relations between Japan and the United States.

"On Way to Prosperity" Declares Reserve Banker.

of the Sixth Federal Reserve District have turned the corner from the period of momentary depression and are well on the way towards better conditions," declared Governor McCord, of the Sixth Feedral Reserve District in opening the meeting of directors of Federal reserve banks here yesterday.

"Things are not half so bad as people seem to think," he continued. "In fact, I would say times are good."

Oconee Inhabitants Begin Search For Dead and Hurt

Oconee, Ga., Feb. 12.—On the site of the homes that were swept away in yesterday's tornado, the Southern Division of the American Red Cross today pitched tents to shelter the homeless people.

A carload of relief supplies arrived here from the headquarters of the Red Cross in Atlanta this morning. A drop in temperature resulted in considerable suffering among the victims of the tornado.

Hundreds of curious people drove here today in automobiles to see the extent of the damage. They reported that raticles of wearing apparel were found as far as eleven miles from Oconee, and there was one part of a bedstead picked up twenty-eight miles away.

Identification of the dead had been practically completed last night. Twenty-nine bodies had been occounted for, but some of the negroes in a hospital at Saunderville were not expected to live through the night.

HONOR LATE C. B. ROUSS

Winchester, Va., Feb. 12.—Harry St. George Tucker, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Virginia; Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and Dr. Richard Heath Dabney, dean of the department of graduate studies of the University of Virginia, were speakers last night at the annual banquet of the Rouss Fire company held in celebration of the birthday of the late Charles Broadway Rouss, of New York and Winchester.

Mr. Rouss, who came here from Frederick county, Md., a poor lad many years ago, went to New York city at the close of the civil war, and became one of the wealthiest merchants of the methopolis. His public and private benefactions here approximated $500,000. R. Gray Williams presided at the banquet as toastmaster.

Rid Yourself of the Every Week Wash Day Worries

Wash-day is one day in the week that is dreaded by every woman. It leaves her tired out—too tired to enjoy any of the pleasures of life.

This labor can be avoided. The clothes can be sent to this laundry at the same time each week and they will be brought back at the same time each week—free from dirt and grime—just as fresh as when they came from the store.

And we use no injurious chemicals when we wash them. There is no disagreeable odor resulting from the use of chemicals. We wash them as carefully as you would in your own home and if there should happen to be an adjustment necessary, we make it cheerfuly and at once.

Our trucks are covering practically all of the city and a call to our driver, who resides in Alexandria will result in an absolute release from wash-day worries.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Alexandria High School seems to have met her waterloo last Saturday. The boys went up against the team of John Marshal in Richmond, played them a good game the first half holding the score at 5 to 4, but when the teams came back after the recess, John Marshall opened up and Alexandria slowed up, thus scoring a victory for John Marshall. The Alexandrians deserve a great deal of credit, however, as they were playing out of their class and against the State champions of last season. Final score 39 to 9.

The girls followed up this game by playing the team of Petersburg High The girls played a fine game but the forward for Petersburg were too much for them. The playing of Miss Paff featured for Alexandria. Final score, 22 to 11.

On Thursday the fourth game of the girls inter class series, was played. The Juniors and Freshmen were the participants in this battle, which ended in a victory for the Juniors. The consistent shooting of Miss Dienelt featured the game. This game leaves the Seniors and Juniors in a tie for first place, which will be played off in the near future. Final score, 24 to 8.

The "Bathing Beauties" dropped a game Thursday to a team that started out to be the Virginia midgets, but ended with a much heavier team. The "Beauties" showed great team work throughout the contest. The passing of Hamberg and Rammage was great. Final score 21 to 19.

On Friday night the Manasses girls came to town with the full intention of wreaking their revenge on A. H. S. for a former defeat, but failed to do it by a score that was closer than ever. Both teams played a great game, but the wonderful shooting of Miss Dienelt turned the tide of victory to Alexandria, leaving Manassas high and dry. Final score, 22 to 10.

Immediately following the girls' game the boys met the team of Railroad Administration (Ingram substituted) and easily defeated them. Both teams were about evenly matched as to individuals but the team work of A. H. S. backed by the dandy shots of Midkiff, Dreifus and Petitt sent the score upward on the side of Alexandria, while the efficient guarding of Oliver and Myers kept the visitors score to a minimum. Coach Haydon substituted three men in the final quarter. Final score, 40 to 18.

At a meeting of the boys of baseball and track teams, it was decided that baseball should be abandoned for the coming season and all attention be put to development of a strong track team. It is also rumored that the girls expect to have a track squad. Several good track meets are expected by High School this season.

Next week's basketball games will be announced later. Watch for them in the Gazette.

Bootleggers Get Useful Tips From Antisaloon League Organ

Chicago, Feb 12.—Bootleggers were even busier than usual yesterday for the latest issue of the Aemrican Issue, official organ of the Antisaloon League made its appearance, and they had their noses in the paper learning new ways to dispose of contraband "hard licker."

The American Issue is published to give tips to the dry sleuths. These tips or latest methods of operation come from every part of the country. Some of the methods outlined in the issue are well known, but others have not been put in general use as yet. Here are some of the latest:

Bartenders wearing two aprons. One to conceal their stomachs and the second one, underneath, concealing a row of small bottles, each suitable for a straight, highball or cocktail.

Milk bottles, enameled to pearly whiteness like those from the dairy, containing "beverages with no" pretension of butterfat.

Bottles labeled as embalming fluids, the contents guaranteed with no pretension of butterfat.

Bottles labeled as embalming fluids, the contents guaranteed to make "one dead" drunk.

Fire extinguishers transformed into "firemakers." A junior still on the inside.

Pockets in the ceiling of the derby (preferably brown) that hold a half pint.

A form-fitting copper corset with a bunghole in the bartender's vest pocket.

Government chemists, working overtime to devise ways of making alcoholic mixtures unpalatable, have some ghastly surprises in store for the thirsty citizen who finds surcease in hair tonic, flavoring extracts and liniments.

Ralph W. Stone, State prohibition supervisor, let one of a congress of ill-favored cats out of the bag yesterday while discussing the Government's plan to denature alcohol used in medicinal compounds.

"To illustrate the methods which will be used," said Mr. Stone, "let us consider liniment.

"Now, certain forms of liniment are strong in alcohol and palatable and reckless drinkers have been applying cures for lame joints to their parched throats.

"To stop this, castor oil is to be mixed with the alcohol in liniments."

That's an example, Mr. Stone said, but others just as atrocious will be devised.

WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIP SOLD

London, Feb. 12.—The White Star line has purchased the steamship Bismarck, the largest vessel in the world, for its New York service.

Was Former German Ship

The Bismarck, a vessel of 56,000 tons, was built at Hamburg for the Hamburg-American line.

SPORTS

Last night the Dreadnaughts basketball team defeated two opponents by the following scores: Riggs A. C., 48 to 11, Maccabee A. C., 56 to 14.

Dreifus, Alexander and Williams starred for the locals in the offensive end, while Roberts and both Haydens played excellent on the defensive. Jack Tullock, the Dreadnaught "sub" stepped out last night and showed class with fast company and you can look for him holding a permanent job if he keeps it up. Both games were brimful of excitement, but proved easy victories for the locals.

The Ingrams and Maryland State are booked for games next week in Armory Hall, and the boys will have to keep going well to win. These two teams rank with the best in the District and Maryland, and big guarantees have been promised both teams, so we need the support of all loyal fans to meet expenses.

The Virginia Athletic Club basketball team now under the name of the Alexandria Athletic Association, will journey to Washington tonight to play the Grace Athletic Club in the Peck Memorial Gymnasium.

The Virginias have made a very creditable showing this season in basketball and will strive to show Alexandria how they will endeavor to make the new club they have joined a real success one of which Alexandria should be proud.

These boys have been unsuccessful in not having a gymnasium to play in, but will now drive ahead with the newly equipped hall that will be opened very soon to the Alexandria public under the direction of the Alexandria Athletic Association, February 16 will be the date for the first athletic show given by the association in the old hall at 606 King St.

Here is where we want all Alexandria to turn out and hear what fine progress this club has made and will make with the new athletic field and gymnasium.

If you are interested in this chance to have a place where you can have a few hours each day for a little exercise and recreation, we have the place and equipment that will be turned over to each and every member for their enjoyment.

Come down to see us on the 16 and we will tell you all about it and what we are going to do.

A BIT OF ADVICE

First—Don't Delay. Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache; headache or dizzy pell; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. In such cases the kidneys often need help.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Alexandria residents desire more convincing proof of their effectiveness than the statement of an Alexandria citizen who has used them and willingly testifies to their worth.

Mrs. R. J. Ayers, 319 South Columbus St., says: "I have found Doan's Kidney Pills a valuable remedy. I have used them at different times when my back has been weak and lame and they have always given me good relief in a short time. Doan's seem to hit the right spot and I always recommend them to my friends."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Ayers had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Coolidge is Given Salary Increase In Executive Bill

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—The salary of the Vice President of the United States is increased from twelve thousand to [illegible] dollars in an monoment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill adopted by the Senate yesterday.

The increase in salary, if it becomes a law, will affect only Vice President elect Coolidge, and not Vice President Marshall, since the appropriations carried in the legislative bill are for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The amendment increasing the vice president's salary was offered by Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, democrat.

COAL FILES TRANSCRIPT LAID BEFORE SENATE

Washington, Feb 12.—The Senate Committee on Manufactures, which, in the course of its examination of the Calder Coal Control bill, had spent several days inquiring into the situation in the District of Columbia, had laid before it yesterday a transcript of what purported to be the proceedings of the National Coal Association held at Cincinnati, July, 1919, a record that revealed many inside phases of the coal industry.

Although the revelations were scarcely sensational, taken as a while, members of the committee were particularly interested in the advice, which seemed to have been given the members of the association by an officer, against any effort to make excessive profits out of the market then existing.

"Do not draw the last drop of blood," the quotation ran, referring to the prices to be charged the consumer, "as many of us have been doing," the quotation concluded.

FOR THE GAZETTE'S LITTLE FOLKS

Una and the Lion

All this while the Lady Una, lonely and forsaken, was roaming in search of her lost Knight. How sad was her fate! She, a King's daughter, so beautiful, so faithful, so true, who had done no wrong either in word or deed, was left sorrowful and deserted because of the cunning wiles of a wicked enchanter. Fearing nothing, she sought the Red Cross Knight through woods and lonely wilderness, but no tidings of him ever came to her.

One day, being weary, she alighted from her steed, and lay down on the grass to rest. It was in the midst of a thicket, far from the sight of any traveller. She lifted her veil, and put aside the black cloak which always covered her dress.

Suddenly, out of the wood there rushed a fierce lion, who, seeing Una, sprang at her to devour her; but, when he came nearer, he was amazed at the sight of her loveliness, and all his rage turned to pity. Instead of tearing her to pieces, he kissed her weary feet and licked her lily hands as if he knew how innocent and wronged she was.

Sad to see her sorrow, he stood gazing at her; all his angry mood changed to compassion, till at last Una mounted her snowy palfrey and once more set out to seek her last companion.

The lion would not leave her desolate, but went with her as a strong guard and as a faithful companion. When she slept he kept watch, and when she waked he waited diligently ready to help her in any way he could. He always knew from her looks what she wanted.

Long she travelled thus through lonely places, where she thought her wandering knight might pass, yet never found trace of living man. At length she came to the foot of a steep mountain, where the trodden grass showed that there was a path for people to go. This path she followed till at last she saw, slowly walking in the front of her, a damsel carrying a jar of water.

The Lady Una called to her to ask if there were any dwelling-place near, but the rough-looking girl made no answer; she seemed not able to speak, nor hear, nor understand. But when she saw the lion standing beside her, she threw down her pitcher with sudden fear and fled away. Never before in that land had she seen the face of a fair lady, and the sight of the lion filled her with terror. Fast away she fled, and never looked behind till she came at last to her home, where her blind mother sat all day in darkness. Too frightened to speak, she caught hold of her mother with trembling hands, while the poor old woman, full of fear, ran to shut the door of this house.

By this time the weary Lady Una had arrived, and asked if she might come in; but, when no answer came to her request, the lion, with his strong claws, tore open the wicket-door and let her into the little hut. There she found the mother and daughter crouched up in a dark corner, nearly dead with fear.

The name of the poor old blind woman was Superstition. She tried to be good in a very mistaken way. She hid herself in her dark corner, and was quite content never to come out of it. When the beautiful Lady Una, who was all light and truth, came to the hut, the mother and daughter, instead of making her welcome, hated her, and would gladly have thrust her out.

Trying to soothe their needless dread, Una spoke gently to them, and begged that she might rest that night in their small cottage. To this they unwillingly agreed, and Una lay down with the faithful lion at her feet to keep watch. All night, instead of sleeping, she wept, still sorrowing for her lost Knight and longing for the morning.

In the middle of the night, when all the inmates of the little cottage were asleep, there came a furious knocking at the door. This was a wicked thief, called "Kirkrapine", or Church-robber, whose custom it was to go about stealing ornaments from churches, and clothes from clergymen, and robbing the alms boxes of the poor. He used to share his spoils with the daughter of the blind woman, and tonight he had come with a great sackful of stolen goods.

When he received no answer to his knocking, he got very angry indeed, and made a loud clamour at the door; but the women in the hut were too much afraid of the lion to rise and let him in. At last he burst open the door in a great rage and tried to enter, but the lion sprang upon him and tore him to pieces before he could even call for help. His terrified friends scarcely dared to weep or move in case they should share his fate.

When daylight came, Una rose and started again on her journey with the lion to seek the wandering Knight. As soon as they had left, the two frightened women came forth, and, finding Church-robber slain outside the cottage, they began to wail and lament; then they ran after Una, railing at her for being the cause of all their ill; they called after her evil wishes that mischief and misery might fall on her and follow her all the way, and that she might ever wander in endless error.

When they saw that their evil words were of no avail, they turned back, and there in the road they met a knight, clad in armour; but, though he looked such a grand warrior, it was really the wicked enchanter, Hypocrisy, who was seeking Una, in order to work her fresh trouble. When he saw the old woman, Superstition, he asked if she could give him any tidings of the lady. Therewith her passion broke out anew; she told him what had just happened, blaming Una as the cause of all her distress. Archimago pretended to condole with her, and then, finding out the direction in which Una had gone, he followed as quickly as possible.

Before long he came up to where Una was slowly travelling; but seeing the noble lion at her side, he was afraid to go too near, and turned away to a hill at a little distance. When Una saw him, she thought, from his shield and armour, that it was her own true knight, and she rode up to him, and spoke meekly, half-frightened.

"Ah, my lord," she said," where have you been so long out of my sight? I feared that you hated me, or that I had done something to displease you, and that made everything seem dark and cheerless. But welcome now, welcome."

"My dearest lady," said false Hypocrisy, "you must not think I could so shame knighthood as to desert you. But the truth is, the reason why I left you so long was to seek adventure in a strange place, where Archimago said there was a mighty robber, who worked much mischief to many people. Now he will trouble no one further. This is the good reason why I left you. Pray believe it, and accept my faithful service, for I have vowed to defend you by land and sea. Let your grief be over."

When Una heard these sweet words it seemed to her that she was fully rewarded for all the trials she had gone through. One loving hour can make up for many years of sorrow. She forgot all that she had suffered; she spoke no more of the past. True love never looks back, but always forward. Before her stood her Knight, for whom she had toiled so sorely, and Una's heart was filled with joy.

Cares For Graves of Unknown

Richmond, Va., Feb. 12.—The unknown Pahl of the Confederacy—the body of a Tennessee soldier killed in 1862—lies unclaimed in the little graveyard of the Walnut Grove Church, Hanover county, a few miles outside of Richmond.

The soldier was killed in the defense of Richmond, during the seven days' fighting between General Beauregard's army and the forces of the Northern leader, McClellan. Buried in the hills village church yard his body has never been claimed by relatives.

Year after year the villagers have tenderly cared for the grave of this unknown hero, hoping that any day would bring news that his relatives had found the body and claimed it.

IN MEMORIAM

CUVILLIER—In loving remembrance of my dear Aunt Lone, who left us one year ago today, February 12, 1920.

If we had seen you at the last,
And held your gentle hands,
And heard the last sigh from your heart,
We would not feel so sad.
A shadow rests upon our home,
I miss your well loved face,
Wherever I turn, wherever I look,
I miss your vacant place.
I often sit and wonder,
What you would think and say,
If you only knew the changes,
Since you have passed away.

Your loving niece,
37-71p. Mrs. Esther Sullivan.

IN MEMORIAM

Departed this life one year ago, February 12, 1919, R. F. COCKRELL.

When you departed from us the sun was nigh and bright,
And you passed to heaven before the coming of night;
On earth your life was given to beautiful deeds,
And now in heaven we know you will do whatever God needs.
Dear father, you were kind and good to us all,
So now we all miss you, dear, sweet loving call;
No one to guide us as in those days gone by,
But we believe you are watching us and always will.

By daughter Sallie,
and son-in-law, C. A. Harrington.
37-1p.

IN MEMORIAM

A tribute of love and memory to our dear husband and father, FRANK R. COCKRELL, who died one year ago today, February 12, 1920.

In the graveyard silently sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
In his cold and silent grave.
He is gone, but not forgotten,
Never shall his memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall always linger,
Around the spot where he is laid.

One year has passed, oh, how we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they do not know the sorrow,
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Today recalls the memory,
Of a loved one laid to rest,
And those who think of him,
Are the ones who loved him best.
The angels have called our love one,
And he has gone to rest,
His suffering now is over,
And God's will must be done.
Home is sad, oh, God, how lonely,
Lonely every night and day.
It is not like it use to be,
Before our dear father went away.
The month of February once more is here,
To us the saddest of the year,
Because one year ago today,
Our dear father and husband passed away.

By his loving wife, children
37-1p. and grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear father, who departed this life one year ago today, February 12, 1920.

Frank Reuben Cockrell.

Father, if I had seen you at the last,
And held your dying hand,
And heard the last sigh from your heart,
I wouldn't feel so bad.
I didn't know the pain you bore,
I didn't see you die,
I only knew you went away,
When I was not close by,
Father, 'tis sweet to be remembered,
And pleasant 'tis to find,
That though you are absent,
You are still kept in my mind.

37-1p. His loving son, Kemp.

PASTOR'S HOME DYNAMITED

Pocahontas, Va., Feb. 12.—While the family of the Rev. W. R. Pickman were asleep in the Baptist parsonage here early yesterday someone threw a stick of dynamite through a window in the second floor of the home, causing an explosion which partially wrecked the structure. No one in the house was injured.

Police yesterday attributed the deed to Mr. Rickman's "vigorous activities" in suppressing violation of the prohibition law.
